

MEDICINE, ETHICS & JEWISH LAW

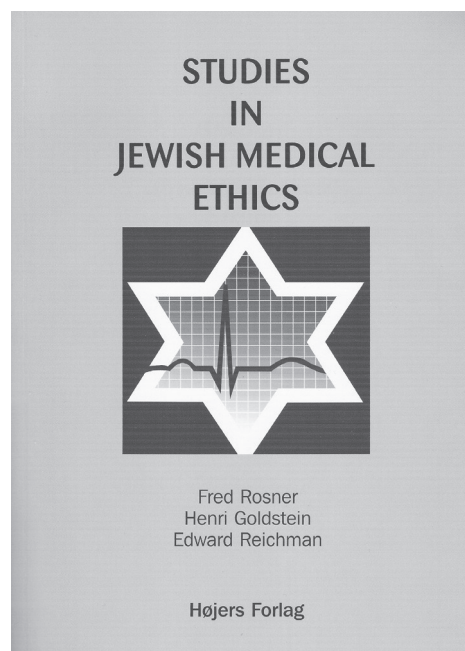

Copenhagen, January 8-10, 2011

4th international congress organized by the Jewish community of Copenhagen

Proceedings from 2001

Proceedings from 2006

PROCEEDINGS FROM FORMER COPENHAGEN CONGRESSES

The first Copenhagen congress on Jewish medical ethics was conducted in 1996. Both the congress in 1996, 2001 and 2006 were followed by publication of proceedings in separate books. The one from 1996 is sold out, but there are still proceedings left from 2001 and 2006.

A free book

Participants who register and pay the congress fee before October 1st, 2010 will upon arrival at the congress receive one of the above books free of charge. The normal price of each book is 100 DKK, and they can be bought at the registration desk during the congress in January 2011.

WELCOME TO COPENHAGEN

For the 4th time, the Jewish community of Copenhagen arranges a congress on Jewish medical ethics. It takes place from Saturday night January 8th, 2011 to Monday night January 10th, 2011. The location is the Scandic Hotel, Vester Søgade 6, DK-1601 Copenhagen V. Phone +45 33 14 35 35 - very close to the center of the city and in walking distance to the synagogue (orthodox).

The congress is open to everyone, and the language is English. Although one may think, that only physicians, dentists, nurses, lawyers and rabbis should participate, the topics and the level of the congress make it possible to participate whatever may be the educational background.

The world has changed, Europe has changed and the Jewish world has changed. Religion means more in the day-to-day medicine than only 15-20 years ago, and the physician may meet patients with various religions. Therefore, part of the congress is a symposium on inter faith religious ethics. There will be participation by representatives from the Lutheran church, the Catholic church, Islam and Judaism. These are the religions most often met by Western doctors.

Both in Germany and in Denmark World War 2 and the medical establishment have been examined. The congress comprises two lectures on this topic.

The congress starts just after Shabbat, so our guests staying in Copenhagen already from Friday will upon request be invited to eat in strictly kosher homes during Shabbat.

The congress committee

The committee comprises the following persons:

Danielle Cohen, M.A.

Henri Goldstein, M.D., D.Sc. (president)

Bent Lexner, chief rabbi

Ulrik Linvald, general secretary of the Jewish community

Ilan Raymond, M.D., Ph.D.

Finn Schwarz, lawyer, president of the Jewish community

Economic support

The main sponsor of the congress is GENZYME

The symposium Sunday is sponsored by Friedrich Wilhelm Frank and wife Angelina Franks memorial foundation
